Verbal Description:

This ladle censer fragment has evidence of a thick white slip covering the inside of the censer and around the top and sides of the tube handle. There is also evidence of burning on the inside. There is a break in the side of the vessel and one in the base which are rounded and may have been part of pierced holes. Their edges are rough. Over the slip inside the censer is a design of lines made with red paint which is eroded. There are 4 partially eroded red dots around the side and top of the tube handle attachment.
